

TERRE HAUTE
INDIANA
JULY 7, 1946

THE TERRE HAUTE
TRIBUNE

AND THE
TERRE HAUTE SUNDAY STAR
TERRE HAUTE,
INDIANA

Scene near the administration building at Gibault School for Boys, showing statue of St. Joseph (at right) and mirror pool (at left).

GIBAULT SCHOOL FOR BOYS, ONE OF TERRE HAUTE'S MOST INTERESTING INSTITUTIONS

The Gibault School for Boys, located three miles south of Terre Haute on U. S. Highway 41, is operated under the supervision of the Congregation of Holy Cross. The institution is supported financially by the Knights of Columbus Councils of the city of Indiana. It affords religious, moral and physical training for boys as well as schooling from the fourth grade to the second year of high school and instruction in various trades. Rev. Joseph Haley is chaplain, Brother Camillus is the director and Brother Placidus is principal of the school. The faculty includes twelve other Brothers of Holy Cross. One hundred and twenty-five boys are in school there at the present time.

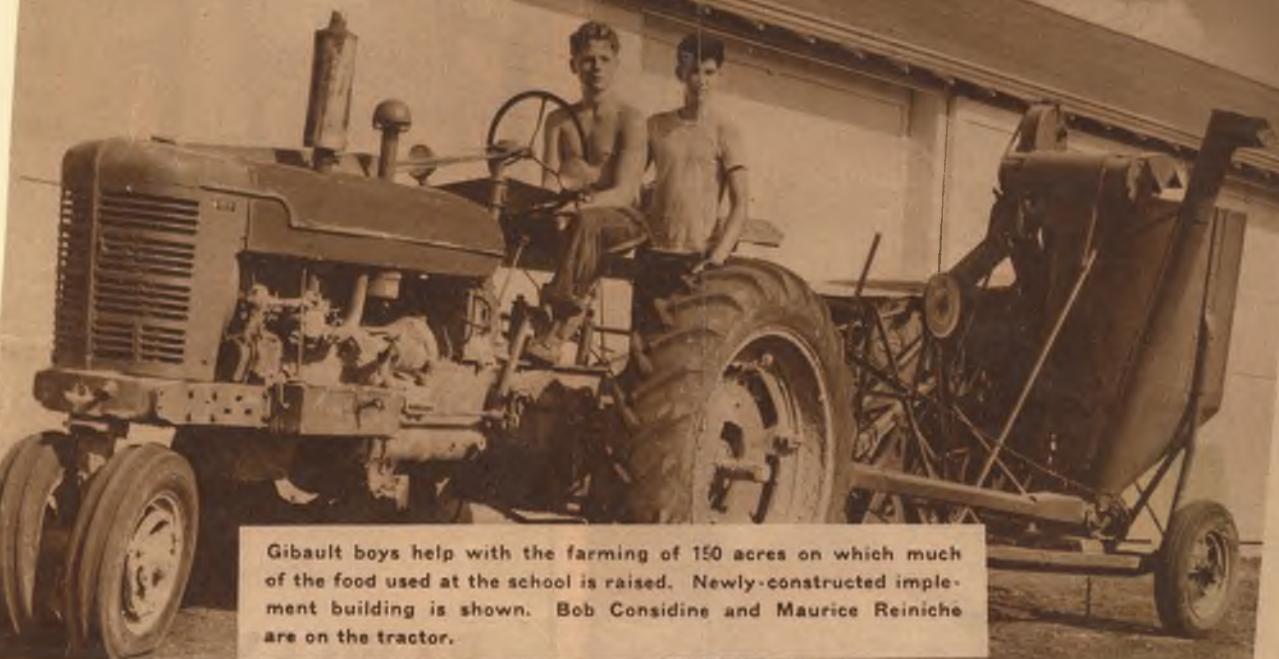

A varied program of sports is carried on for the boys at Gibault. Standing, left to right are Joseph Inks, James Williams, Joseph Lane and Tony Cascio. Kneeling is Thomas Melton.

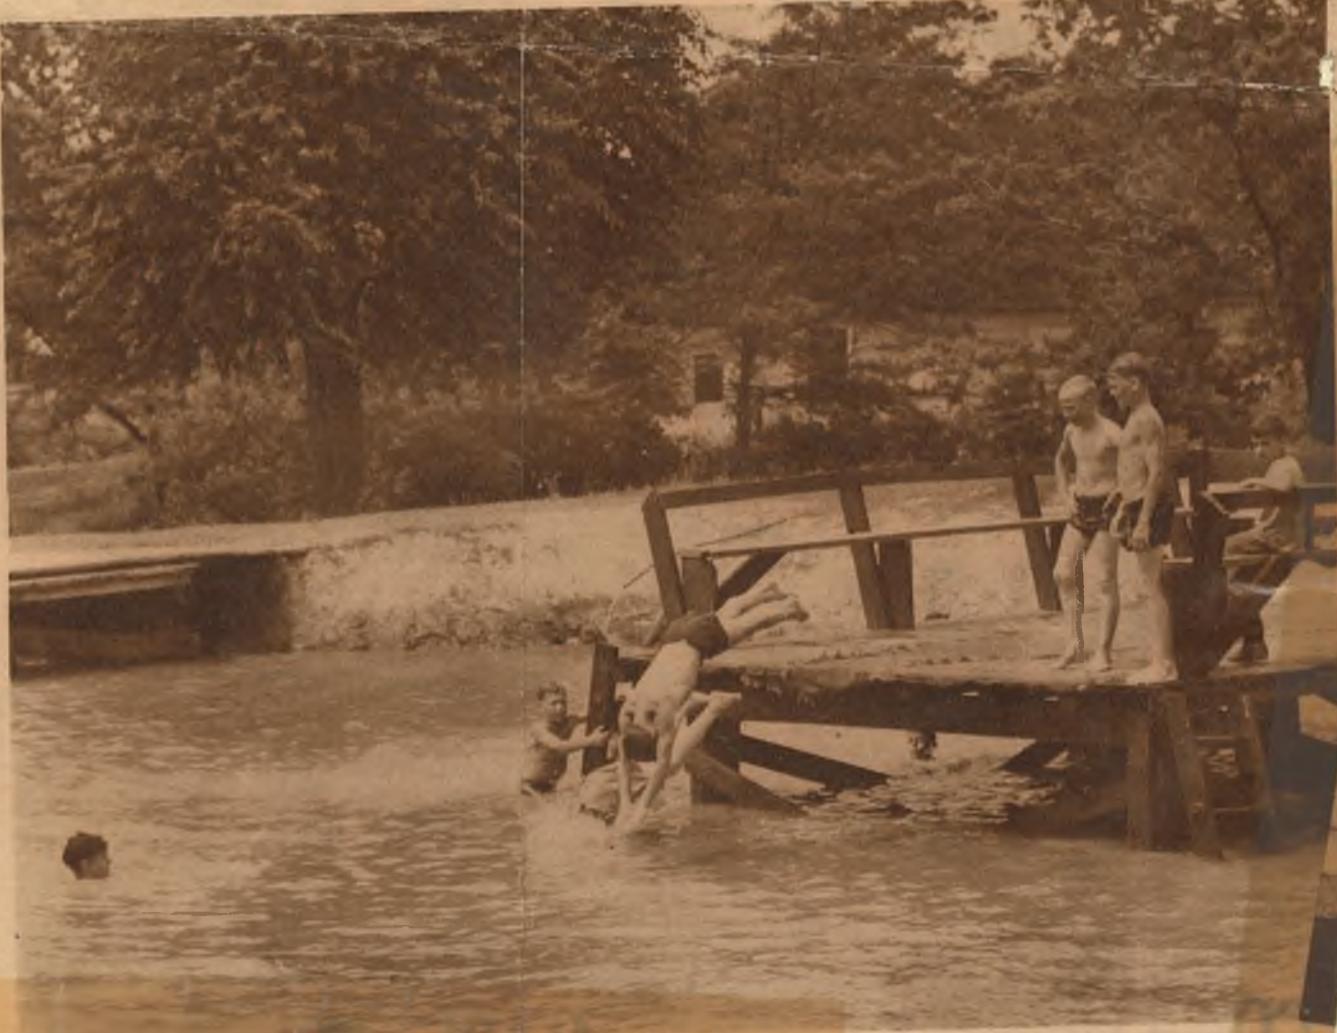

SANCTUS

Boys' Chapel at Gibault where religious services are conducted each day.

Gibault boys help with the farming of 150 acres on which much of the food used at the school is raised. Newly-constructed implement building is shown. Bob Considine and Maurice Reiniche are on the tractor.

The ol' swimming hole is one of the most popular spots for the boys at Gibault School for Boys.